

IN TELEVISION: DOCTOR WHO

This past Saturday night marked the premiere of the newest season of Doctor Who. Doctor Who is a science fiction show airing on the British Broadcasting Corporation. The show is also the longest running sci-fi show on the planet having been on the air since 1963.

Before you go thinking that this is a show for geeks, Doctor Who offers something for everyone. The Doctor, the show's main character, uses his time machine, the TARDIS, to travel everywhere and everywhen from far off future planets to past periods on the earth. There are elements of romance and action in every season. And there are enough plot twists to keep you in suspense but not make you go insane trying to understand it all.

And if you are afraid that in order to get into the show, you will need to watch every previous episode (over 700), do not be. One of the coolest things about the show is that the Doctor regenerates every few seasons into a different person. So even if you have never seen an episode, you can just jump right in to this latest season.

Or if you would like to watch some older episodes, here are some of my favorites:

Blink

The Girl in The Fireplace

Midnight

Social Media

With this new year and new design of the TP comes a major change for Kings Court English.

We are attempting to increase our involvement in social media platforms. So to keep you up to date on the latest KCECH news, check out our pages below.

facebook.com/KingsCourtEnglish

twitter.com/KCECHatUPenn

gplus.to/KingsCourtEnglish

AROUND PENN: CLASSES COMMENCE

To the now official freshmen, NSO is sadly over, and classes have now begun. That means it is time to study hard and pay attention in classes. This transition can be hard, but if you took my advice from last issue, you at least have a lot of dessert to help you through this trouble time.

To the upperclassmen, this is all old hat, so you can all relax of course. Instead of NSO, you were working hard preparing for class. Ha, we all know that is about as likely as finding a rhinoceros in your dorm room.

As a freshmen, you need some tips to start college off right, and as an upperclassmen, you could probably use a reminder. So here's a quick list:

Create a calendar of your class schedule and put in the due dates of all your class work.

Your schedule is NOT final. You can still change it before September 21st.

If you are having trouble deciding between majors, take classes that fulfill requirements for both. That way you get more time to decide.

Do whatever it takes to pay attention. If you miss the fundamentals now, it will make the later stuff so much harder to learn.

Do not overwork yourself. Perfection is not a necessity.

Lastly, and most importantly, remember to have fun every now and again.

KCECH QUICK TAKE By Anonymous

Day 1: First impressions.

Why is there a picture of Bella-trix Lestrage on my door with my name on it?

Why does this dorm insist on being 150 degrees at all time?

Why is my RA 10 feet tall?

Why don't the windows open?
Why is our whole hall English?

Why do the people across the courtyard not shut their blinds?

WHY ARE WE ALL SO COOL?

AROUND PHILLY: AUDABON BAKESHOP

Located in Suburban Station Concourse at the entrance between 16th and 17th on Arch, Audabon is an amazing stand that got started this summer.

Audabon makes palatable puddings, and mouthwatering macarons. What makes this shop great is the sheer variety of flavors that they have.

Just to give you a taste of their menu, Audabon offers Salted

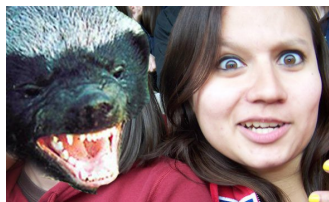

Caramel and Buttermilk Panna Cotta in way of puddings. As for macarons, they offer Bananas Foster, Chestnut Pear, Green Tea Passion Fruit, Lemon Cream, and so much more!

Audabon is open on the 5th, 6th, and 7th of this week from noon to six. Check out their website (see below) each week to see when their open.

www.audabonbakeshop.com

SEPTEMBER
SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT
Calendar Key ■ KCECH ■ Penn ■ Philly &amp; Beyond	3 NSO DAY 5	4 NSO DAY 6	5 Classes Start	6 KoP Fashion Night	7 Student Organization Fair The 39 Steps	8 Reading Terminal FPAN
9 Atma Auditions Dog Fest	10 WiCS Workshop StorySlam	11 Career Fair	12 Dinner Discussion Study Break	13 Antony and Cleopatra	14 PennApps Vaudeville	15 Canoe Trip Owl City
16 Monsters	17 Constitution Day Celebration	18 VSA GBM	19 When I Grow Up... Kiss and Motley Crue	20 Shoemaker Green Opening	21 Can You Hear God Crying?	22 International Cinema Night

Character of the Week

PILAR PADILLA

I'm the Head House Manager. I'm from TEXAS! I'm a senior majoring in Communications, with a minor in Poli Sci. I also work for Communication Within the Curriculum on campus and a non-profit called Art Sanctuary in south Philly. I dabble in freelance pro-bono life consulting. My two pop culture loves are Star Wars and Beyoncé. Honey badger is a good term to describe me. As you can see, I'm a bit cray. Always willing to shoot the breeze, find me on EH4!

THE WEEK AHEAD: 9/6—9/12

9/7, 11am—Student Organization Fair. Go find out about all the clubs and figure out which one fits you best.

9/8, 11am—Reading Terminal Market. Meet in English House and let our Special Events Manager Carolyn take you into the city to check out many different kinds of food all in one place!

9/8, 7pm—Freshman Performing Arts Night. Only $5 for new students and $8 for upperclassmen, go check out this amazing show with wonderful performers like Penn Glee Club, Atma, and Bloomers!

9/10, 8pm—WiCS Workshop. Get introduced to computer science terms and get ready for PennApps with this web development workshop!

9/11, 10am—Career Fair. Head to the Sheraton for the first day of this fair open to everyone.

9/12, 10pm—Study Break. Head to the game room to play pool, ping pong, and foosball. Enjoy pretzels, chips, and other snacks while you play!

RELAXATION AND PROCRASTINATION

Like I said previously, you want to be sure not to overwork yourself. Which really means you have to make some time to relax and to procrastinate. So what can you do during these procrastination periods?

You can do the usual things, like watch a television show, dance to your favorite song, or watch a movie (this is not recommended as it is far too much of your time).

However, I suggest you go to sporcle.com and play around there. Sporcle is a trivia site. There are official quizzes to try made by the site masters and there are also quizzes made by the users of the site.

The trivia ranges from geography to sports, from Harry Potter to AC/DC, and from science to economics. No matter what your taste is, you will find a quiz to challenge whatever knowledge you pride yourself on the most.

And for more entertainment, play with a group of friends!